

Work in Progress Gardens

Francis and Genni Kleckner, Muscoda WI

Work In Progress Gardens is located in the Driftless Region of SW Wisconsin in a little valley off the Wisconsin River. The garden is the work of a husband and wife team with help from family and friends. We built a home on the property in 1996 and had a blank canvas to work with to create gardens. A couple of years later we were introduced to a local daylily seller and hybridizer. This began our journey and interest in daylilies.

We now grow over 1000 registered daylily cultivars in all forms and colors along with many companion plants. To the north of the house, we have terraces filled with daylilies and companion plants. There are many beds of different sizes and shapes to the south of the house. A large garden space with Genni's seedlings and line outs of her registrations occupies the center of the yard. The shady areas contain Hosta and shade plants.

We look forward to your visit during the summer meeting and you enjoying our gardens as much as we do.

Work in Progress Gardens

Francis and Genni Kleckner, Muscoda WI

